The Brethren Colonies... on the Northern Pacific Railway...

...IN...

North Dakota, Idaho and Washington

are prospering and increasing from year to year.

In Central North Dakota...

the Brethren Church at Carrington has 182 members, including three elders, five ministers and fifteen deacons, with two branch Sunday schools, and four out-preaching stations. Many Brethren are located at Sykeston, Barlow, New Rockford, Sheyenne and Oberon.

FREE GOVERNMENT LAND in Wells and McLean Counties. RAILROAD LAND at $3 to $5 per acre; TEN YEARS' TIME, SIX PER CENT INTEREST, in McLean County.

EXCELLENT GRAZING AND FARMING LANDS farther west at very low prices.

Reduced Rates for the Benefit of Settlers Are Now in Effect.

In Idaho and Eastern Washington...

Government Homesteads can still be obtained, and Railroad Lands can be bought from $3 to $10 per acre on TEN YEARS' TIME at SIX PER CENT INTEREST.

Fertile Soil! Healthy Climate! Good Markets!

The Northern Pacific Extensions...

South and east from Lewiston, Idaho, along the Clearwater River, are opening up wonderfully wealthy Farm, Fruit, Timber and Mineral Lands. NOW IS THE TIME TO INVEST THERE. Many Brethren are located in the Nez Perce Reservation and in the Clearwater country.

The Sunnyside District...

of the Yakima Valley is one of the BEST IRRIGATION PROPOSITIONS in the United States. The Brethren are settling there rapidly. Have worship regularly at Sunnyside, and expect to organize a church soon. Climate particularly beneficial to persons suffering with asthma, bronchial or lung troubles. All semi-tropical fruits do well and alfalfa leads as a money maker.

Western Washington...

offers unlimited opportunities for farming, lumbering, fishing and mining.

In North Dakota and Montana

Along the

Great Northern Railway

North

Dakota

Hundreds of Brethren have already located in that State, and there is still room for other Many church societies have been organized and newcomers are not deprived of educational advantages. The original and principal settlements are along the Great Northern Railway in the Turtle Mountain, Devils Lake and Mouse River districts, where there are still free lands open to homeseekers. The Railway Company has no grant in that State and therefore no land for sale. Men who are renting high-priced Eastern land that they can never hope to own, or else have farms too small to support their families, still have an opportunity to get a piece of Uncle Sam's estate, large enough to make each of them well off. Government land of real agricultural value is being rapidly taken, and the man who wants good free land and puts off getting it very long will hear the old refrain, "Too late," when he begins to search.

For printed matter and information about rates, routes, etc., address as below.

Milk River Valley of Montana

Farming by irrigation. Rain when the sun shines. Every man his own rain maker. Crops a certainty every year when water is properly used. Free Government land can be easily and cheaply irrigated from running streams and storage reservoirs. Six cooperative farmer ditches taken from the Milk River are in operation around the towns of Havre, Chinook, Yantic and Harlem.

The artificial distribution of water over the land for crop purposes (or every man his own rainmaker) is a subject little understood by the majority of the people of America. It is not a new thing by any means. The earliest agriculture of the old continents began in arid lands. To this day more than two-thirds of the people of the earth live upon foods grown upon lands artificially watered.

The Valley of the Milk River is in Northern Montana and has a length of over 180 miles. The average width of the valley is about two miles, although in places it widens out to four and five miles. The banks of the stream are timbered with cottonwood, box elder and ash. The bench lands are wonderfully adapted to grazing purposes. Land can be bought with water right, or farmers can build their own ditches. Land produces all the staple grain and root crops. Good markets and shipping facilities. The Great Northern Railway runs for 180 miles through the Milk River Valley. Bench lands furnish fine range for horses, cattle and sheep. Large veins of coal crop out of the banks of the Milk River and its tributaries.

Wonderful

Washington.

"The Evergreen State." Washington offers to Homeseekers better opportunities than any other part of the United States. Some of its advantages—Finest climate in America, no long cold winters, no big fuel bills, no heavy expenses for clothing, very little snow, in some sections none at all, finest grain and fruit land in America, no crop failures, plenty of free land or choice locations at low prices, good markets, good schools and churches.

THIS IS A PHOTOGRAPH OF THE SKULL OF A CALF.

BRAYTON'S CERTAIN HORN PREVENTER

Was applied when the calf was three days old. Six weeks after it was killed for veal. There were no signs of horns.

Brayton's Certain Horn Preventer A Wonderful Scientific Discovery

It is a chemical compound which, when applied to the embryo horn, will stop its growth and leave the head perfectly smooth.

This is the cheapest, easiest and most humane method of producing hornless cattle.

It will dehorn at a cost of less than one cent per head.

Sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price, 75 cents.

GENTENNIAL ALMANAC FOR 1900.

MERCURY IS CALLED THE RULING PLANET THIS YEAR.

THE YEAR IN GENERAL. — Is more dry and cold than warm, and seldom fruitful.

SPRING. — The end of March will be warm; April, until the 25th, dry, afterwards cold. May will have some cold days in the commencement, so that the fruit will be in danger.

SUMMER. — Will have a good deal of rain, by which the earth will, however, not be properly refreshed. The hay and grain can be brought in pretty well, though it will be best not to delay with it.

AUTUMN. — In the commencement there will be a great deal of rain, and there will be early frost; but when the half of October is past, there will be dry weather until the commencement of advent.

WINTER. — After a pleasant autumn, winter will fall in suddenly in the commencement of December; it will be cold and snow until February, which will appear rather mild; but from the middle on to the 4th of March it will be cold and from then on to the termination, storms and tempests will take place.

CULTIVATION OF SPRING GRAIN. — Will succeed pretty well. It is a favorite year for barley. Oats, peas, and other leguminous plants must be sown when the ground is neither too dry nor too wet and damp. Hemp and flax will be good, but the hemp will remain short.

CULTIVATION OF WINTER GRAIN. — Is various. If the summer of the preceding year was very warm, wheat and rye will in the present year yield largely in straw, but little in grain; but if the preceding year was humid, they will yield well in the grain. Rye and wheat will be endangered in the blossoming.

AUGUST SEEDING. — The early and the late will be the best; the middle one will be consumed by the flies. The early sown grain can be pastured by the sheep in the spring, but the late sown must not.

FRUIT. — In some places it will grow abundantly, in some places tolerably, and in others there will be none at all.

HOPS. — Will not be abundant nor strong.

GRAPE CULTURE seldom succeeds; probably in five or six years once, is always rough, and if it ever promises fairly in the spring, it seldom produces anything good; but two unproductive years will follow yet, viz., that of the Moon and Saturn.

TEMPESTS AND THUNDERGUSTS. — The east wind will be the most prevalent, sometimes the west, but seldom the north wind; during the summer there will be but few thundergusts.

FISHES. — There will be but few fish in the streams during the summer; in the autumn they will increase.

DISEASES. — Can be cured only slowly in this year, and they prevail mostly in the spring and latter part of autumn. Epidemic diseases generally prevail among the cattle this year.

THE SHIP OF THE DESERT.

BY H. B. BRUMBAUGH.

ALMOST from the beginning of time it has been necessary to have means for removing productions and things from one place to another. To do this, all the known forces have been utilized—water, steam, electricity and the different kinds of animals.

Perhaps of all these forces used, the animal was the most ancient. Being accustomed to the more modern appliances, the improved water, steam and electric, we cannot well conceive how the exchanging of products could be made without them, especially the railroad which now extends from ocean to ocean and from North to South. Yet a half cen-

In many countries that were inhabited centuries before our own, the people lived and did business without using either wagons, boats or railroad cars. And it is surprising how much can be done by the use of the more primitive modes, the beasts of burden. And among these, none, perhaps, have been of more use through all time than the camel, the ship of the desert, which is now so much used in Oriental lands. At our distance from Eastern life and customs it is hard for us to imagine how a world or people could live and get along with no way of moving produce and exchangeable commodities except by beasts of burden. But as you get into these countries and see how it is done, the mystery disappears.

Of all animals known the camels are best adapted to carrying burdens in a number of ways. They can travel and endure longer without food and water than any other burden beast. They can eat and live on almost any kind of food that grows. Even in the desert, where all other animals would perish, they find pasturage. And they can travel under heavy burdens for days without either food or drink. This is a great advantage, and a special providence in making journeys across the great deserts where neither water nor food can be had. Their broad and spongy feet are especially adapted to travel over sandy routes, such as are very common in these Eastern countries. Then, too, their remarkable strength and endurance fit them for burden-bearing purposes. And, lastly, they are exceedingly careful and sure footed, which enables them many years ago the productions of our country were carried from place to place over the water canals and the new turnpikes that stretched from East to West. While these answered their purpose then, they would prove greatly inadequate now with the vast increase of our productions. And yet there are ways and means by which the common wants of mankind can be satisfied without any of the more modern inventions.

to travel over all kinds of rough roads and pathways; and bad roads and rough by-ways are the rule in many of these old countries.

During our late travels through the Eastern world we first noticed the camel as beast of burden in Asia. And while at Smyrna we saw large caravans of them coming in from the North and East—bringing the wheat, dates and figs to market, this being the packing and preparing center for all that part of the country, covering hundreds of miles. It is a most interesting sight, at the entrance of the city, to see the great caravans of loaded camels as they approach the city and stop at the resting places before entering. As you see the scores of hundreds as they come in through the gate, burdened down with the produce of the surrounding and distant countries, it is no more a question how the world can move its productions without wagons, boats and cars.

At Damascus, another Oriental business center, the camel is everywhere present as burden bearer. While there we had taken the photograph seen on page 7, of a train of camels leaving the city for Jerusalem, a distance of 170 miles south. The large sacks, one on each side, which you see in the picture, contain from eight to ten bushels of wheat, so that each camel carries from sixteen to twenty bushels, and frequently the driver on top. This train consisted of about fifty camels.

And when you are told that the sacks placed on their backs at Damascus are not taken off until they reach the warehouses in Jerusalem, you are made to wonder in surprise. But when you know how these beasts are loaded and unloaded you will breathe easier. The two sacks are stood on end far enough apart to allow a camel to walk between. They then get down on their knees when the sacks are leaned one to the other and tied together, the camel then gets up and he has his load on his back, a very simple and easy way of loading produce for market. To unload they kneel down, the sacks are loosened at the tops and the load is off. At evening when they stop for the night they kneel down. When the bottoms of the sacks stand on the ground the burden is lifted from their backs and they rest, feed and sleep under and between their burdens. We saw hundreds of them doing this outside of the wall, near the Damascus gate, at Jerusalem, and it is one among the interesting sights to be seen in this land of the Bible.

The picture is a good one and bears study when done in connection with the Bible story.

HICKORY GROVE CHURCH, MIAMI COUNTY, OHIO.

BY JACOB COPPOCK.

FROM the year 1827 the territory now known as Donnels Creek, Lost Creek and Hickory Grove were one organization presided over by Elder Christian Frantz. In the part now called Hickory Grove Isaac Darst was a minister in the second degree and John Studebaker, deacon; in all about twenty-five members.

Dr. Peter's Blood Vitalizer costs less than other good medicines, when measured by results. A record of over one hundred years constant use has demonstrated its merits.

In 1830 Henry Harshbarger, David Landis, deacons, and Isaac Karns, elder, moved in. Then what is now Hickory Grove church was organized with about forty members under the care of Isaac Karns.

In the fall of 1832 Isaac Darst died. In 1833 John Studebaker died. Soon after Abraham Studebaker was elected deacon. In 1835 Henry Harshbarger moved out and David Landis was elected to the ministry. In 1836 David Shelabarger, Adam Stinebarger and Henry Rubsom, ministers in the second degree, moved in, and Isaac Karns moved to Indiana. Shelabarger's certificate of membership contained in addition to the usual recommendation the statement that he was sufficiently established to be ordained, but it had not been done for want of help, and though a novice he was ordained (which was the key to years trouble in the church).

In 1837 James Ward and Daniel Arnold were elected deacons. Ward at this time insisted on the ordination of Darst, so that their children could be married in English. Some time later Ward moved out. About 1849 the interest in the good cause grew so low that for a time there were no regular preaching services held, though there were three resident ministers; but by the efforts of David Bowman, John Darst and Peter Nead the work was again established, David Shelabarger being in charge.

In 1853 David Landis and David Shelabarger moved out, and Joseph Arnold and Jacob Snell were elected deacons. David Studebaker, a minister in the second degree, moved in. He proved a minister of great influence, and being dead yet speaketh. Now there were about eighty members. In 1855 the present house of worship was built. Prior to that time services were held in private homes. In 1856 Abraham Studebaker died. In 1858 Joseph Arnold was elected to the ministry, S. S. Studebaker deacon, and Henry Rubsom and Adam Stinebarger ordained. From the time David Shelabarger moved out until the above ordination the church was under the care of Elder John Frantz, of Donnel's Creek.

In 1860 John Crist was elected to the ministry and Samuel Coppock and Jacob Frantz, deacons. In 1861 Jesse Studebaker, minister in second degree, moved in. He remained three years. In 1862 John Crist was advanced to the second degree, and soon moved to Illinois. In 1863 G. W. Studebaker moved in and labored here for two years, then moved to Indiana. In this time the death of David Studebaker occurred, which was deeply lamented. There were now one hundred members.

About this time (1865) Rubsom and Stinebarger were relieved of their ministry by a committee from Annual Meeting and H. D. Davy and Abraham Flory placed in charge; Flory remained in charge until the division of '81. In 1866 Samuel Coppock was elected minister, Jacob Hawier and John Filburn, deacons. In 1872 Isaac Studebaker, minister in second degree, moved in. In 1873 O. F. Yount was called to the ministry and labored here until 1876. The Middle District was formed; he and Samuel Coppock were living in that territory. In 1879 Jos. Arnold was ordained and Jacob Coppock and D. S. Filburn were elected deacons. In 1880 Henry Gump was called to the ministry and Harrison Shull, a deacon, moved in.

In 1881 the memorable divide took from us about thirty members, including Elder Flory, our minister, and three deacons, leaving the church with Henry Gump, minister and two deacons; in all about one hundred members. The church now called Elder John Smith to take charge. The experiences had in the division were such that the church was knit together with a very strong feeling of love that, barring a few little incidents along the way, exists to-day to a very great degree.

In 1881 Jacob Coppock was called to the ministry and Henry Gump advanced to the second degree.

In 1882 the first series of meetings was held by the assistance of I. J. Rosenberger. The meetings were held with many fears on the part of some and deep anxiety on the part of others; they resulted in twenty-eight accessions and greatly confirmed the members. In 1885 D. S. Filburn was called to the ministry and Jacob Denlinger and John Tanreuther were elected deacons, and after a short service in their official capacity they both went to their reward. In 1886 Henry Gump was ordained and Jacob Snell elected deacon. In 1891 Samuel Studebaker, Jr., and Geo. Zimmerman were called to the deanship. In 1893 Samuel Gump was called to the ministry.

The official board now stands: ministers, Henry Gump, Jacob Coppock, D. S. Filburn and Samuel Gump; deacons, Jacob Hawver, Jacob Snell, Geo. Zimmerman and Samuel Studebaker. There are now about one hundred and fifty members. During this time there have been two committees from Annual Meeting to settle difficulties. We now have three points of regular preaching, with a fair attendance and interest. At no period in the history of the church was there a greater per cent of the Brethren's children in the church than now.

MRS. SYBIL JONES.

MRS. SYBIL JONES was not a sister in the Brethren church and yet she had the appearance of a most devout sister. Hers is a fine face. It will do any one good just to look at that noble face and study it. It possesses all the marks of intelligence, piety, tenderness and earnestness. She was a Quaker lady and often appeared in the pulpit. Elihu Burritt, in 1852, heard her in England, and writes this concerning her appearance and discourse:

"At the first word she loosed the fastenings of her bonnet, and as she spoke handed it down to her husband with a grace indescribable. There was something very impressive in the act, as well as the manner in which it was performed, as if she uncovered her head involuntarily in reverence to that vision of divine truth unsealed to her waiting eyes. And in her eyes it seemed to beam with a heavenly light serene, and in her heart to burn with holy inspiration and meekness, and to touch her lips and every gentle movement of her person with an expression eloquent, solemn, beautiful as her words fell upon the rapt assembly from the heaven of tremulous, flute-like music with which her voice filled the building. Like a stream welling from Mount Hermon, and winding its way to the sea, so flowed the melodious current of her message, now meandering among the unopened flowers of rhymeless poetry, now through green pastures of salvation, where the Good Shepherd was bearing in his bosom the tender lambs of his flock; next it took the force of lofty diction, and fell, as it were, in cascades of silvery eloquence, but solemn, slow, and searching; adown the rocks and ravines of Sinai; then out, like a sweet-rolling river of music, into the wilderness, where the Prodigal Son, with the husks of his poverty clutched in his lean hands, sat in tearful meditation upon his father's home and his father's love. More than a thousand persons seemed to hold their breath as they listened to that meek, delicate woman, whose lips appeared to be touched to an utterance almost divine. I never saw an assembly so moved, but so subdued into motionless meditation."

The very appearance of the woman was in keeping with what she said. How noble it is when the outward appearance, life and conduct of Christians accord with the religious principles they profess to believe and promulgate. It might be wise for those who are in the habit of giving so much attention to the fashion plates to study the simplicity manifested by Mrs. Jones, and endeavor to imitate her way rather than the ways of the world.

NATURAL BRIDGE.

BY F. F. HOLSOPPLE.

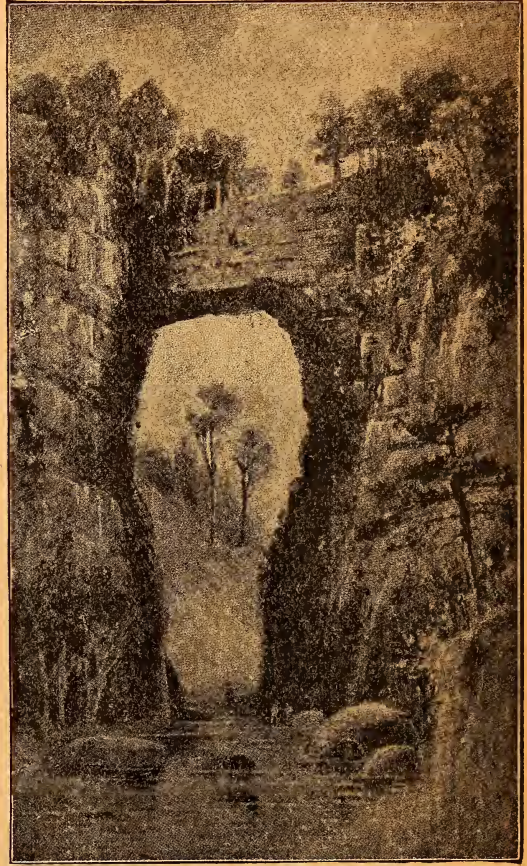

At the close of our Annual Conference at Roanoke, Va., last May, a party composed of about sixty brethren and sisters visited the far-famed Natural Bridge. This marvel of nature is in Rockbridge County, two and one-half miles from the station which bears its name, on the Norfolk and Western railroad. The Bridge spans a deep, narrow gorge, in a spur of the Blue Ridge Mountains, through which flows Cedar Creek, a branch of the James River.

As many of our party as could be accommodated availed themselves of the carriages which were waiting at the station for passengers. Some who remained, realizing that much time would be lost waiting for the return of the vehicles, decided to walk. Others preferred to walk though carriages had been in waiting. The road wound around hills, through ravines, over gorges washed by the rapid-flowing mountain streamlets, in an unbroken ascent, save by a few short declines which gave a slight relief to the constant upward trend. The scenery was wild but beautiful. The forests clothing the hill and mountain sites were interspersed with clearings and poorly-cultivated fields.

The log huts and cabins of the negroes and poor whites who inhabit the neighborhood, the blue sky above, flecked with fleecy clouds, stooping to meet the hill and mountain tops, the hum of bees gathering honey from white clover and wild flowers, the care-free song of birds, re-echoing through the woodland glens, the slow, contented movements of the cattle, in field, forest, and roadside, and the long and curious gaze of the natives as our party in groups passed by, made a picture that will endure while memory lasts.

After a long walk, a short decline around the side of a hill, through a forest overlooking a deep wooded valley below, brought us into full view of two large hotels on an eminence beyond, which told us we were near the object of our search. After a brief rest we were ready to view the attractions of the place.

Our feelings at this time are not easily described. In boyhood days in school our hearts were thrilled by the tale entitled, "Terrific Scene at the Natural Bridge." Our Physical Geographies in later years told of its standing almost alone in point of structure as one of nature's marvels. Now a cherished wish of years was about to be gratified. Is it possible that in this experience of a life-long hope about to be realized there should arise feelings akin to those that shall thrill our being with rapture when, standing in the presence of the Eternal Judge, we shall hear, "Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord"?

Passing through the gate, we needed no guide, as the well-trodden path, beaten hard by the feet of thousands of visitors, gave sufficient direction. The path led to a ravine cut in the bluffs by a mountain streamlet. A wooden stairway, followed by steps cut from the limestone rock which once formed the bed of the stream from which a cemented wall now serves as guard, and lastly another flight of wooden stairs, brought us to a winding, still descending path below.

This ravine is in itself a place of romantic wildness and beauty. Arbor Vitæ of unknown age and the largest in the world are here. The streamlet dashing in cascades and rapids down its rocky bed, broken into silver spray, here and there sleeping in pellucid pools, sparkling and bright, makes one long to sit in the shade of the trees and gaze upon its wild and native beauty. But we may not tarry. As we pass down the path the gorge grows deeper. The limestone bluffs, tree crowned, with sides mantled with vines and ferns which find sustenance in the crevices of the rock, grow higher and more precipitous. Our pulses quicken with the anxiety of expectation as we keep our eyes fixed steadily on the path before us, so that our first impression of the Bridge should come from one unbroken view.

Hearing the voices of those who preceded us we stopped and looked up. Before us stood the Bridge, majestic, sublime and beautiful in its massive strength.

Two hundred and fifteen feet in height, so that Trinity church (New York) could stand in its shadow; one hundred and seventy feet to the keystone, so that Niagara Falls could stand beneath its symmetrical arch; ninety feet in width of span, so that the traffic of Broadway could pour through with as ample space as in America's Metropolis; chiseled from one stupendous block of blue limestone, unbroken by seam or scar it stands a miracle in stone.

Several theories as to its formation have been advanced, but none seem to answer the various conditions presented, save that of a direct creative act. The true secret of its formation is known only to the Creator. According to geologists it stood long before the continent was known to the Caucasian race.

"It's a good medicine." That is the condensed opinion of everybody who has ever tried Dr. Peter's Blood Vitalizer. There is much contained in that homely verdict of few words.

It was old and moss-grown when first the Indian pursued his game in the quiet glen or danced around his camp-fires robed in warrior's skins and decked with paint of war. It stood a monument of ages when Thebes was a mighty city and Pharaoh sat upon the throne of Egypt. Compared with it the Pyramids are but of yesterday. So old is it that in silence it looked upon the creative processes in the morning of the world. If this be true, what a history does this great marvel hold in its corner stone! How it would thrill us to hear the story of all that transpired around it since first its foundations were securely laid and its mighty arch was sprung by the hand of God!

We could only stand in admiration and wonder as we looked upon it. The massive walls crowned with verdure and draped with vines and ferns, the murmuring creek flowing over its stony bed, the roaring of distant cascades, the sunlight struggling down through the branches of overhanging trees sparkling in the bosom of the pools below, the circling flight of swallows that had found a secure nesting place in the crevices of the bluffs and under the protecting arch of stone—a tabernacle of the Most High,—the cheerful springtime song of birds and the silence of the Bridge that yet spoke eloquently of centuries past and possible ages to come, called forth a flood of emotion that cannot be described.

One feeling, however, predominated in the minds of all. It was a vivid sense of the nearness of the Creator. The spirit of worship was there, and when some one struck up the melody of that beautiful hymn to which every heart was already attuned, all joined in singing,

"Rock of ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee."

As the closing strains of the hymn re-echoed under the arch and died away through the glen, we all knelt down at the margin of the stream to worship him whose presence and power seemed so near. A few short addresses by members of the party voiced the sentiment uppermost in the minds of the speakers, and rich in thought and deep in feeling were the words spoken. We closed our service by singing,

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Our company then separated into smaller groups who visited other points of interest in the locality. As we were thus engaged we became conscious that time was passing rapidly away, and we hastened to get one more view of the Bridge, this time from the top. We trembled as we looked down into the abyss where men looked like animated dolls.

SATURN is in opposition with the Sun on the 23d and shines all night.

Around us on every hand was grandeur. To the north the mountains rose above us. To the south the gorge deepened and widened as it neared the valley of the James river. All around are mountains suggestive of strength and endurance, the Peaks of Otter, like grim and silent sentinels, keeping watch over all. As we gazed upon the wondrous scene we instinctively looked up, and the words, "Marvelous are thy works, and that my soul knoweth right well," flashed through my mind.

As we turned away we realized that we had spent a day with Nature in one of her strongest moods, which to the Christian heart means a day with God.

ELDER G. C. BOWMAN, OF TENNESSEE.—A CHARACTER SKETCH.

BY M. NEAD.

IN the death of Eld. G. C. Bowman a strong man has gone from among us. And though months have elapsed since he passed away, a notice of some of the leading elements that entered into his make-up as a man and as a Christian may not, even now, be without interest, and profitable consideration.

As a descendant of a family, prominent in the past history of the Brotherhood in Tennessee, among the lineal descendants of which were a number who were talented quite above the ordinary mass of men, he appears in a personality in some respects unique and peculiar.

He was born in the year 1832, on Carroll Creek, Washington County, Tenn., where he spent the early years of his life under the religious influence and teaching of the Brethren. In the year 1860 he married Anne Hylton, daughter of Eld. Austin Hylton. In the autumn of this year he and his companion were received into the membership of the Brethren church. Within a year or two from his baptism into the body of Christ he was chosen to the ministry. In the work of preaching, his growth into efficiency and power was gradual and steady.

He engaged at once in the work to which he had been called. His first efforts in public, which we well remember, were much like those of one engaged in ordinary conversation,—without any apparent effort in delivery, and entirely without that zeal and enthusiasm that characterized his preaching in later years. But there was something in his public talks that indicated his methods of study, and gave promise and evidence of growth and development.

His preaching, at the first as well as in later years, consisted almost entirely of Scriptural quotations, with such comments as he could give. Fullness and accuracy of quotation were quite apparent in all his efforts.

From these earlier years of his life work down to the time of his death three prominent traits appear conspicuous in his character. And they evidently were the source or means of his power among men. These were, first, he was an untiring student of the Scriptures; second, he was a man of much faith; third, he was much given to prayer.

In his reading and study of the Scriptures his naturally retentive memory was taxed to the utmost, so that in time he acquired a wonderful fund of Scriptural knowledge, which readily served him and made him ready to preach at any time that it seemed required of him. Had he in his earlier years been trained to habits of analysis and to that close discrimination in the use of terms, and in the application of Scriptural truth, that is always effective in religious discourse, he would indeed have grown into a man of wonderful power in the pulpit.

His method of study was to take the leading points of a subject, and by searching the references he would gather all the Scriptures in any way bearing on those points. So he was always full in quotation, and rarely failed to be accurate. He was much given to preaching on the first principles of the doctrine of Christ. In fact, his sermons were usually full of the terms of salvation, and the conditions of pardon. So, where he was well known, his preaching, to some, seemed to be somewhat routine, and to some extent wanting in variety and that wide range of thought that a more thorough training and culture in early life would have given. But in new fields his sermons ever made a marked impression on his hearers. So as an evangelist, for preaching the doctrines of Christ on the outskirts, and in the waste places, his worth to the District was invaluable.

He read and studied the Scriptures with the view of preaching them as the divine Word, because of his faith in the life-giving power of that Word; for he was a man of much faith. Few men in their preaching had a deeper and more abiding faith in the effectiveness of the Word to produce results than he, and few had a more unfaltering trust in the promises contained in that Word. He never was in the habit of relating sensational incidents, or in any way attempting to stir the hearts of his hearers, save through the simple teaching of the Word.

His abiding faith in God and the promises of his Word made him truly a man much given to prayer; for he certainly leaned heavily on him in whom he believed. Often he was heard to say that he ever sought a throne of mercy and grace before starting on a journey or engaging in any work of moment. This prayerful spirit, this sense of dependence on and confiding trust in the unseen hand of God, was with him in his every-day life. Whether he was engaged in the work of the ministry or in enjoying the associations of home and friends, he was the ever same praying man.

The later years of his life were given entirely to the work of preaching, and the burden of his thoughts was in line with his work. So when his last sickness came, in the delirium of his last days, his ebbing energies were given to repeating passages of Scripture, to apparent efforts at preaching, and to prayer.

On whom may his mantle fall, and who may worthily bear that mantle?

FARMER JOHN ON HUNTING FOXES.

THE Samson mentioned in the Bible was the greatest fox hunter I ever read about. He caught 300, tied firebrands to their tails, and let them run through the ripe wheat fields of the Philistines. I guess these Philistines never before saw fire spread so fast, and it was done so quickly that most of them did not know what had happened.

There are people these days who hunt foxes, and find them too, and sometimes do with them more mischief than Samson did. Some of these people will even hunt foxes on Sunday. I have known them to go to meeting and look all around over the house to see how many foxes they could find. You may think this is not a very nice way for people to do. Well, it is not, still some who think themselves very nice do it.

I have noticed that these persons find more foxes on other people's places than on their own. In fact I never knew a man of this kind to spend time on his own place looking for foxes. I do not know why this is, but everybody knows that it is so. Sometimes they do not seem to have time to hunt for the little creatures around their own homes, but they have plenty of time to go all over the neighborhood in search of foxes.

Then I have noticed that it is the little foxes that spoil the vines, as Solomon says; and while these people were away from home hunting their neighbors' foxes, the little foxes were spoiling their own vines. But the most remarkable thing is, that not one man in ten can see a fox among his own vines, though he may see them by the dozen, just across the lane, in his neighbor's vineyard.

We would not have anything to say if these fox hunters would kill all the foxes they find in the neighborhood, and thus help get rid of them. Instead of that they see how many of them they can get and then make pets of them, and every time any one comes along they get their pets out and show them, telling just where they got each one. You will find people who have nearly as many pet foxes as Samson caught, and if they would dare to do it, they would let them loose and set the whole neighborhood on fire. If it was the law for each man to pay tax on each fox he keeps to show to visitors, the government would not need to levy a tax on anything else. It would in that way get more money than it would know what to do with.

Some people know more about their collection of foxes than they do about their Bibles. They could not talk ten minutes about what is in the Book, but, if you listen that long, they can talk to you all day about their foxes. If it was to save their life they could not narrate to you the life of Moses, but without any special effort they can tell you in detail the history of nearly every fox in the neighborhood.

But if you want to find out how little a man can know when he wants to appear ignorant, just get him to tell you about his own foxes. You will be astonished at how little he knows on that subject. This is the best way I know of putting an end to a conversation on fox hunting. It is here that most people think that ignorance is the best policy. By foxes I mean faults.

LORD AND CHURCH.

BISHOP WATTERSON, of Nebraska, was once mistaken for a traveling salesman by a commercial traveler who met him in a railway train, says the Christian Endeavor World.

"Do you represent a big house?" asked the traveler of the bishop.

"Biggest on earth," replied the bishop.

"What's the name of the firm?"

"Lord & Church."

"Hum!" "Lord & Church." Never heard of it. Got branch houses anywhere?"

"Branch houses all over the world."

"That's queer. Never heard of 'em. Is it boots and shoes?"

"No."

"Oh! dry goods, I suppose."

"Yes, they call my sermons that sometimes."

Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels normal, by an occasional dose of Dr. Peter's Blood Vitalizer and you will stand a pretty good chance of keeping well.

DEVOTIONAL.

BY I. B. TROUT.

MEDITATION.

Some one has said, "Meditation is the daughter of retirement and the mother of piety." From the practical point this is true. If any one would learn to love God more, let him retire from the noisy, busy scenes of life, for a season each day, and there meditate upon his great need and upon the wonderful love that God manifested toward us in giving his Son for us when we were yet sinners. Let him consider what would be his condition and what his hope, if cut off from the mercy of God. Let him consider the awful issues of death if it were not for the love of the Savior. Let him anticipate the joys of the saints in glory.

MORNING PRAYER.

THOU most holy and righteous Father, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, our hearts go out to thee in gratitude for thy loving kindness in preserving us through the shades of the night. We thank thee for the calm rest of the night, and for the light and the blessings of the new day which we now enter by thy grace. May our hearts be open to the purifying influences of thy Word, as our eyes are open to the beauties of the morning. Holy Father, we pray thee to give us grace for this day's duties; fill us with thy wisdom; anoint us with the Holy Spirit; and warm and inspire our hearts with thy love. Help us to use thy blessings to thy glory, and to the praise of the blessed Savior. We pray thee to remember all thy children and strengthen them to walk with thee. Help us to lead sinners to thee, the fountain of life. And when the shades of death are upon us, let the glorious light of the eternal day dispel the darkness, as the brightness of this new morning has conquered the shades of the night. We ask in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, our Savior. Amen.

EVENING PRAYER.

O Lord, our Father, in the name of thy Son, our Savior, we come before the throne of grace as the daylight fades out and the shades of night gather us into their folds. With mingled feelings of joy and sadness do we come to offer our evening sacrifice. With joy, because thou hast so richly blessed us this day; with sadness, because we have not lived nearer to thee and done more in thy service. But we ask thee to remember thy great love for thy children, and in the plenitude of thy mercy to forgive our errors. While the flame of love is burning on the altar of our hearts and as we offer our thanksgivings and praises thereon, oh! do thou come very near us and accept our weak tribute as the best that we are able to do. O Lord, as thou hast filled this day with rich blessings, so do thou fill our lives with the riches of thy grace, and enable us to carry thy goodness to the children of men. Help us to close our eyes in sleep this night in faith in thee and in thy promises. Let the holy angels keep watch over us. But if it seemeth good to thee to call us hence before the morning dawn, then do thou receive us home to thyself in glory, we humbly plead in Jesus' name. Amen.

SECRET PRAYER.

O thou most holy Father in heaven, do thou help me to close the door of my closet and to be alone with thee, and to talk with thee in the name of my blessed Jesus who loved me and gave himself for me. Hide thou me in the secret of thy tabernacle while I pray to thee, the God of heaven. Oh, help me that nothing carnal may intrude while I draw near to thee. O thou eternal Father, I do thank thee for the richness and fullness of thy blessings. Accept the thanks that I bring for the gift of thy Son. I thank thee that thou hast pardoned my sins, and washed me in Jesus' blood; and that thou hast taken from me my filthy rags and clothed me in thine own righteousness. Oh, do thou fill me with the joys of thy salvation and uphold me with thy free spirit. Lord, take all selfishness away from me, and fill me with thy love. Help me to be a light in the world, showing forth the light of thy countenance, that sinners may be converted to thee. O Lord, help me to lead children to thee. Consecrate me fully to thy service, and prepare me for every good work. Open mine eyes to behold the beauty of thy majesty. Let there be a deeper work of grace in my heart, that I may be filled with divine wisdom, and walk in all the ways of God. Blessed Master, when I go from this place let me never forsake the right way, but always bear the fruit of the Spirit. Support me in temptation, that I fall not. And when the day and journey of life is ended, oh, may I fall asleep in Jesus, and in the glorious morning of eternity see him as he is and be like him, and reign with him forever, where thou, Father, art all and in all. Let these rich blessings be mine forever, through Christ my Lord. Amen.

TABLE PRAYER.

Lord, as we come to this table our hearts go out in gratitude to thee. We know that from thy liberal hand all our returning wants are supplied. We ask thy blessing upon this meal. Feed our souls with spiritual food. Do thou help us to use our strength in thy holy service; and finally give each of us a place with the redeemed in the New Jerusalem. We ask it all in the name of our Savior. Amen.

"HOW MAY A MOTHER EXERT A GOOD INFLUENCE OVER HER BOY?"

BY NANCY D. UNDERHILL.

FIRST, it is important to begin very early. If we wish to have a tall, straight and beautiful tree, and the tree is somewhat crooked, we must straighten it while young and tender, or we never can. But all our efforts will never make a silver leaf maple of a scrubby jack oak, or a stately elm of a thorny cactus. If we desire an oak, we plant an acorn; if a peach, we plant a peach. So, if we would plant great, beautiful trees of life in God's garden of souls, we should begin before conception: we should plant only seeds of purity, love, honesty, and godliness. Nevertheless, regarding trees already planted, proper care and wise grafting may bring excellent results.

The next thing after planting a tree, is properly to nourish and care for it. Every human soul ought to be properly nourished from the very hour of conception. We protect our young plants from the crowding of weeds, from the devastation of insects and animals, and our house plants and others of value from the sun's scorching rays and the beating hail or driving rain. Do we protect God's precious unborn souls? If not, we may be held accountable by and by. Many a murderer, many a thief, many a fornicator, many an idolater, many a profane man, has been made so by surrounding influences before birth. The father has much to do with those influences, but we are asked to write only of the mother's influence. Mothers, you can give your sons a pure God-serving mother to love and look up to for instruction, comfort and happiness. Love them, not only after they grow large enough to be attractive, but love them as soon as God gives their souls a breath of life, which is even prior to birth. A hated child could hardly be expected to amount to anything. Yet many a poor soul is cursed by his own parents before he ever sees the light.

Having loved and cared for them thus long, keep on doing so. Dress them comfortably, and feed them pure, healthful food, so they may feel reasonably happy. If you love them, of course you will ceaselessly pray for them and set an example of purity and uprightness before them. Children learn to talk as their parents do. If you wish to give to God a faithful servant who may win many souls to Christ by his words and voice, train that voice to speak in a gentle, pleasing and firm, clear tone, to speak only such words as are true. SET THE EXAMPLE. A child learns to imitate its copy. If you tell Johnny that there's a bear or wildcat in a certain place, because you don't want him to go there, and he sees you open the door, revealing no bear or wildcat, he will think you are a liar, and if it's smart for dear mamma to lie, of course it is for Johnny. But if you always tell the plain truth, and never deceive (not even in regard to Santa Claus) your boy will know that what mother says is true, and will respect her religious instruction accordingly.

Having thus gained your son's confidence, you may impart to him such instruction as will make your future daughter-in-law love you, your grandchildren praise you, and the angels of heaven rejoice with the saints on earth because of the honesty integrity, and true godliness of a faithful and useful man. A true man is an image of God. Are we reflecting before our son's eyes such knowledge as will make him like God? Mothers have been known to make them like the other power. We should show our love to our boys in our actions. Not by scolding. There are many ways in which we may manifest love, and they are not indulgence either. Though pure pleasures should be indulged, a Christian mother should so win her boy's confidence that she will be his truest and most trustworthy confidant, his best and most pleasing companion, his faithful, earnest and God-fearing adviser. Go a-fishing with him sometimes: enter into his sports, show sympathy with his tastes, and interest in his ambitions. Sow into his young heart seeds of purity, integrity, mercy and kindness at every opportunity. Sow them along with your daily conversation in a palatable manner, like a little sugar sprinkled over his bread and butter. Don't wait till his wedding day to teach him the things that you want your daughter's mother-in-law to teach her boy. The child is more teachable than the man. The grown tree can not be straightened. The farmer's boys are taught properly to care for plants and animals. The city boy may also be so instructed in a limited degree. And along with that instruction we may lovingly teach them that human souls are far more important than plants or animals. PLANT the Golden Rule in their hearts.

THE man who willfully goes back on his word has turned his back on heaven.

Dr. Peter's Blood Vitalizer was first prepared in the year 1780 by the grandfather of the present proprietor. Is it not likely that a remedy which has stood such a test of time possesses merit?

HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

BY DOCTORS VANIMAN.

Cancer of the Breast.

Whenever a woman over forty years old finds a tumor forming in the breast which is hard, somewhat painful, and which gradually causes the nipple to retract or become drawn in, she should suspect cancer and have it looked after soon. Often the cancer could be cured and life saved if attended to early, which proves fatal when not promptly treated.

Moles.

A very simple procedure is said to remove moles without having recourse to the knife: Shave a match splinter to as fine a point as possible, dip in carbolic acid and lightly touch the mole, care being taken to prevent the acid touching any other portion of the skin. Apply this every three or four days and the mole will gradually disappear, leaving its space clean and healthy.

A Simple Disinfectant.

For the sick room a pleasant disinfectant is made by putting in a saucer some freshly-ground coffee and lighting a piece of camphor gum on top of it. As this gum burns it emits the odor of roasting coffee, an aroma that is agreeable to most people. This perfume has the advantage of being healthful, and is to be preferred to the pastiles and incense powders, which to some are very sickening. The odor of the coffee will counteract any bad aroma in the room and the fumes of the camphor will kill ordinary disease germs that may be floating around.

Wearing Glasses.

Why do so many more young persons wear glasses now than some years ago?—is a question often asked. There are at least two reasons for this. First, they go to school more and use their eyes more steadily in study than years ago. Secondly, good glasses, properly fitted, can be more easily obtained and persons are learning that they will correct the trouble with their eyes. When a young person complains of headache when reading or studying, pain in back of the eyeballs, the reading blurring after reading a few minutes, great trouble to read by lamplight, an oculist could be consulted, regardless of the age of the person. Can glasses be properly fitted without seeing the patient? Emphatically no, except in cases of older persons who could do as well or better, to go to some drug store and select from a stock of glasses those that suit them. But best of all is to have the eyes properly tested and fitted, as frequently one's eyes are not alike and require different glasses. Glasses properly fitted are often more injurious than none.

Hints About the Teeth.

Have your teeth examined once or twice a year by a competent dentist. He makes no charges for this and may, by this examination, save you much expense and annoyance.

Never have a tooth pulled that can be saved by filling.

Brush the teeth regularly every day, using some salt or baking soda if you have no prepared tooth powder. Rub them thoroughly not only with a side motion, but also up and down.

Tartar on the teeth is very injurious, as it forces the gum away from the tooth and loosens it.

Decayed teeth should be removed, as they are injurious to the health and make the breath offensive.

Hot Water.

Hot water has far more medical virtues than many believe or know. Because it is so easily procured thousands think it valueless. The uses of hot water are, however, many. For example, there is nothing that so promptly cuts short congestion of the lungs, sore throat, or rheumatism, as hot water when applied promptly and thoroughly. Headache most always yields to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and back of the neck.

A towel folded several times and dipped in hot water, and quickly wrung out and applied over the painful part in toothache or neuralgia, will generally afford prompt relief. A strip of flannel or napkin folded lengthwise and dipped in hot water and wrung out and applied around the neck of a child that has the croup will sometimes bring relief in ten minutes. Hot water taken freely half an hour before bed time is helpful in case of constipation, while it has a most soothing effect upon the stomach and bowels. A goblet of hot water taken just after rising, before breakfast, has cured thousands of indigestion, and no simple remedy is more widely recommended by physicians to dyspeptics. Very hot water will stop dangerous bleeding.—National Farmer.

A Good Eyewater.

A good preparation for inflamed eyes is made as follows:

Sulphate of Zinc,.....	2 grains
Sulphate of Morphia,.....	2 "
Boracic Acid,.....	5 "
Rose Water, .....	1 oz.

Apply by dropping a few drops in the eyes once or twice a day.

Thousands of dollars could be saved annually by invalids of the community, if, instead of calling in a doctor for every ordinary ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Dr. Peter's Blood Vitalizer.

Scarlatina.

This is the technical name for scarlet fever. Often when a doctor pronounces a case scarlatina, persons are inclined to consider it only a mild case of scarlet fever, and will not use the same precautions they would if they understood that scarlatina and scarlet fever are one and the same disease, and one which requires the best of care, as what seems a slight attack may end seriously.

Cholera Infantum

This is one of the dreaded diseases of childhood. It is the same disease as cholera morbus in adults. It is caused by some indigestible food, and is almost always confined to hot weather. There is usually vomiting and diarrhoea, with severe pains in the bowels. Every child's life would be saved if the parents would use a syringe and hot water, filling the bowels with the water as hot as can be borne. Repeat this each time the bowels move or a cramp comes on. This disease often does its work before a physician can be secured, but if the foregoing instructions are followed until a physician can be secured the chances of saving life will be greatly increased.

The Foot Bath in Bed.

It is often desirable to give a sick person a foot bath. Many persons do not know how easily this can be done in bed under the cover. Simply place the foot tub under the cover; let the patient lie on the back. Bend the legs at the knees and place the feet in the tub. It is comfortably done and plenty of time can be taken.

Bedroom Pointers.

Sunlight is good for everything but feathers. Away with hangings, either above or below the bed. Beware of a dusty, musty carpet; better sweetness and a bare floor. Keep the head cool while sleeping, but not by a draft of cold air falling upon it. If a folding bed must be used contrive some way to keep it aired and wholesome. Let the pillow be high enough to bring the head in a natural position; no more nor less. Thoroughly air the sleeping-room every day; place the beds and bedding outside as often as possible. A dark, out-of-the-way, unwholesome corner is no more fitted for a sleeping-room than for a parlor. A feather bed which has done service for a generation or two is hardly a desirable thing upon which to sleep.

Using Tobacco.

Prof. Rufus Clark of the normal school of Winchester, Tenn., said: "I can go through this school and put my hand on every boy that uses tobacco, for it shows it in his face; and, if I am in doubt, I can give my surmise by looking at his recitation cards."

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR

A COURSE of highly interesting and deeply inspiring literature to read during the long winter evenings?

A BOOK

is valuable only according to the influence it has upon the mind of the reader. "Of the making of books there is no end," said the Wise Man, and in these days of progress it is literally true. We can not even read all the good books. One of the marvels of the age is the great missionary movement which confronts the Christian church to-day. The church that is not intensely missionary ceases to be evangelical. Where do you stand on this great question? Do you want to know more about it? To help you to acquire a greater knowledge of missions and inspire you to a greater degree of activity along this line,

OUR MISSIONARY READING CIRCLE

was organized several years ago. It has done a noble work: we want it to continue. A course of reading has been outlined covering the whole field of missionary effort. Care has been taken in the selection of books, only those best adapted to our people being selected. We

WILL HELP YOU

to take up this course of reading by furnishing the books at low prices to those who join the Circle. The management is under the care of the General Missionary and Tract Committee. The Pilot is the organ of the Circle, where a properly conducted department is devoted to its interests. A "Young People's" and an "Advanced" course will be added shortly. Write to-day to the Secretary for a promise card and full information concerning books and prices.

VERSES FOR TABLE SERVICE.

Those knowing of other appropriate verses for table service, will please send copy of the same.—E.D.

S. M.

GOD is the fountain whence
Ten thousand blessings flow;
To him my life, my health and friends,
And ev'ry good, I owe.

* * *

The comforts God affords
Are neither few nor small,
He is the source of fresh delights,
My portion and my all.

* * *

O, BLESS the Lord, my soul;
Let all within me join,
And aid my tongue to bless his name,
Whose favors are divine.

* * *

O, bless the Lord, my soul;
Nor let his mercies lie
Forgotten in unthankfulness,
And without praises die.

C. M.

O, Lord, we cannot silent be,
By love we are constrained
To offer our best thanks to Thee,
Our Savior and our Friend.

* * *

Great God, to thine almighty love
What honors shall we raise?
Not all the raptured songs above
Can render equal praise.

* * *

To thee, O God, in thankful song,
We lift the heart and voice;
O may thy mercies tune each tongue
And bid our souls rejoice.

L. M.

Bless, O my soul, the God of grace,
His favors claim thy highest praise;
Why should ungrateful silence hide
The blessings which his hands provide?

* * *

Father, thy mercy hath supplied
Our wants from thy bounteous store;
O, may our souls, thro' Christ who died,
Be fed and never hunger more.

* * *

We thank thee, Lord, for daily bread,
Which from thy bounteous hand is given;
O may our souls through grace be fed
On Christ, the Bread of Life from Heaven.

We bless thee, Lord, for this our food,
But more for Jesus' flesh and blood;
The manna to our spirits given,
The loving bread sent down from Heaven.

* * *

God from his cloudy cisterns pours
On the parch'd earth enriching show'rs;
The grove, the garden and the field,
A thousand joyful blessings yield.

* * *

If peace and plenty crown my days,
Then help me, Lord, to sing thy praise;
If bread of sorrow be my food,
Those sorrows work my real good.

* * *

Be present at our table, Lord!
Be here and ev'rywhere ador'd!
Thy people bless, and grant that we
May feast in paradise with thee.

* * *

O render thanks to God above,
The Fountain of eternal love,
Whose mercy firm through ages past
Has stood and shall forever last.

* * *

Blessings to God, forever blest—
To God, the Master of the feast—
Who hath for us a table spread,
And from his hands us creatures fed.

* * *

O, give us all a thankful heart;
Help us from evil to depart;
Our daily meat Lord, let it be,
Thy will to do, and follow thee.

A LITTLE SUNSHINE.

How He Used the Candles.

This will be appreciated by those who have traveled in Europe, where it is customary for the guests to pay for the candles in their rooms, whether they use them or not.

A New Yorker was shown to a room in a hotel in Brussels, where he found twenty candles stuck in a chandelier in the center. As it was dark, the attendant lighted them all; but the guest had been in European hotels before, and made him put them out immediately.

This was of no avail, however. In his bill next day he found them charged, "twenty candles, 10 francs" ($2.00).

He went back to the room and took them all out, wrapped them in a bit of paper and slipped them into his overcoat pocket.

Dr. Peter's Blood Vitalizer cleanses the blood of its impurities and at the same time strengthens the entire system. It makes healthy, happy children and grown folks. Sold to the people direct or through local agents.

When he was about to leave the house he found the servants drawn up in two lines in the hall in the European style—ten men-servants on one side, ten maid-servants on the other—all smiling and ready for the expected tip. Then he drew out his package and distributed the candles, one to each.

"Allow me, monsieur," said he, with a bow; "permit me, madame. They are very superior candles, I assure you; I paid ten cents apiece for them;" and he left them all staring at the candles like so many altar boys.

Why She Did Not Cry.

An emotional preacher observed one Sunday that the whole of his congregation, with the exception of one little girl, who sat quite alone, was in tears.

He thereupon directed all his power toward the child, drawing such touching pictures that the rest of the congregation grew more and more overcome, sobbing and crying; but the child still stared at him dry-eyed and at length he was obliged to give it up and end the sermon.

Meeting the child outside, he upbraided her for her hardheartedness and asked her why she did not weep.

"It is not that I am hard-hearted," the child responded, "but I belong to another church."

He Sat Down.

A Sunday school teacher tells of a comical experience. He was invited to make an address at a Sunday-school festival, and having nothing prepared to say, he tried to picture to the children the dolefulness of his position, and asked them this question: "What would you do if you were compelled to stand on a platform before so many bright boys and girls who expected a speech from you and you had nothing to say?" "I'd keep quiet," said one small boy; and his answer immediately brought down the house, and quickly brought down the speaker, too.

The Young Preacher's Test.

It is said that Spurgeon was in the habit of testing the ability and self-possession of the theological students under his care by sending them up into the pulpit with a sealed envelope in their hands containing the text of the sermon or address each one was to deliver on the spur of the moment. On one of these occasions the student, on opening his paper, found this subject and direction given him: "Apply the story of Zaccheus to your own circumstances and your call to the ministry." The student promptly delivered himself in the following way: "My brethren, the subject on which I have to address you to-day is a comparison between Zaccheus and my qualifications. Well, the first thing we read about Zaccheus is that he was small of stature; and I never felt so small as I do now. In the second place, we read that he was up a tree, which is very much my position now. And thirdly, we read that Zaccheus made haste to come down, and in this I gladly and promptly follow his example."

An Apt Reply.

SHE was dressed smartly; and, when she met a small, bare-legged urchin carrying a bird's nest with eggs in it, she did not hesitate to stop him.

"You are a wicked boy!" she said. "How could you rob that nest? No doubt the poor mother is grieving for the loss of her eggs."

"Oh, she don't care," said the boy, edging away. "She's on your hat!"

It will cure rough coat, swelled legs, hide bound, poor appetite and skin disease. It will help cows not doing well after calving, etc. It contains no cheap filler, but is pure medicine, and doses are small, therefore it is an economical stock medicine and should be used whenever a condition powder is indicated for horses, cattle, sheep and hogs.

A HINT

Many of Our Brethren desire to make a change of location. They want to go somewhere to better themselves.

Where to Go—That is the question.

The Nampa and Boise Valley in Idaho is a region of so many advantages that it well deserves investigation.

Healthfulness.—This is an important item to the prospective settler. An elevation of 2,000 feet, insures immunity from the many diseases so common in low swampy regions. Not the least important feature are the mild, short winters affording opportunity for out-of-door labor nearly the entire year. During the exceptionally cold winter of 1898-1899 elsewhere, the thermometer only fell to a few degrees below zero in the Nampa and Boise Valley. Owing to the very salubrious climate the death rate in Idaho is lower than in any other State in the Union.

No Cyclones, Storms, or Blizzards.—The very mention of this one fact will be appreciated by the many thousands who have been frightened by the terrible and destructive cyclones, so common in the Eastern States.

Pure Water.—An unfailing supply of this very necessary factor is always available for irrigation and household purposes. This practically insures good crops, and cause no drouth need be feared.

Investigation Solicited.—Sometimes advertisements are misleading and promise too much. This country asks for nothing but investigation to prove its merits. Write to some of those who are there now: Eld. Caleb J. Fogle, J. H. Graybill, George D. Fike, ministers of the Brethren church at Nampa, Idaho, and they will give you an opinion based on practical experience. A church of the Brethren will be organized soon. It will be in full running order by the time this Almanac reaches most of our readers.

An Interesting Bit of History.

Deep in the woods of Maryland, in the valley of the Antietam, surrounded by its majestic hills, there lived in the last century a man who, by the results of persevering study and scientific investigation, secured for himself the lasting gratitude of his own and following generations. While others were bent on measures of war during those revolutionary times, he was quietly following out a mission of "peace and good-will to men" by ministering to the wants of the sick and afflicted. Means of transportation in those early days, of course, very meager, being limited, in the main, to travel on horseback—but even that form of transportation was denied to him of whom these few lines are written, for, from a boy, he had met with an accident which had caused a curvature of the spine, giving him the appearance of a "hunch-back," hence he always traveled afoot. The distance from farm to farm and valley to valley was oftentimes very great, but distance had no horror for him if he thought his help and skill were needed, hence it was that he became known, not only in the section of Maryland, where he lived at that time, but in parts of Pennsylvania and Virginia as well. The man of whom we write was old Dr. Peter Fahrney, grandfather of the present doctor, who bears the same name. His life was not only devoted to scientific research, but he was also an active leader and a pillar in the church to which he belonged. It was these combined qualities of heart and mind which endeared him to the people and which have actuated the descendants of those among whom he labored to now honor his memory as a man and citizen. With that end in view, the Fahrney Memorial Association was recently organized at San Mar, Md. It has secured control of the "old medical shop" which was used by him as office, laboratory, etc. It is yet in a very good state of preservation. This "shop" (as it was then called) is now to be enclosed by an iron fence and covered by a copper roof, so as to hereafter protect it from the ravages of the weather. Near the "shop" is the same water spring, bubbling up between rocks as it did over 100 years ago, and which, even in those days, afforded weary travelers many a refreshing drink. This spring is now to be turned into a free, public fountain for the benefit of travelers along that highway—indeed, a most fitting commemoration of the life and services of one who so untiringly ministered to both the physical and spiritual needs of the people. It does not often happen that the memory of a man who lived such a quiet and unassuming existence, occupied as he was, solely in the field of medical research, hoping thereby to benefit his fellow men, is so highly revered by a fourth and fifth generation. One thing is certain, when, in this cold and prosaic age, a community makes public recognition of a man's services and is willing to place itself to such expense in honoring his memory so that future generations may also know about him, that man must have been above the ordinary and his life and activity not in vain. So much in honor of the discoverer of DR. PETER'S BLOOD VITALIZER.
